

Fondazione Villa Maraini

posted on 23. September 2020, 12:03  Italy

Villa Maraini, Italian Red Cross National Agency for drug addiction and IFRC Training Centre on Substance abuse, joined the International Awareness Overdose Day on 31st of August promoted by the Penington Institute in Australia, celebrating the intuition of Massimo Barra dated May 1980, when he launched for the first time in the world the idea of making first aid interventions with Naloxone (opioid antagonist drug) by non-medical personnel.

Click here to see the publication on Villa Maraini experience in preventing and treating overdose:

https://issuu.com/villamaraini/docs/reducing_fatal_opioid_overdose_repo